1. And let this fee-ble bo-dy fail, And let it faint or die, My soul shall quit the mournful vale, And soar to worlds on high: Shall join the dis-em-bo-died
2. In hope of that im-mor-tal crown, I now the cross sustain, And gladly wander up and down, And smile at toil and pain: I suf-fer out my three-score
3. O what hath Je-sus bought for me! Before my ravished eyes Ri-vers of life di-vine I see, And trees of pa-ra-dise: They flourish in per-pe-tual
4. I see a world of spirits bright, Who reap the pleasures there; They all are robed in purest white, And conqu'ring palms they bear: A-dorned by their Re-dee-mer's
5. O what an heaven of heavens is this, This swoon of silent love! How poor the world's sublimest bliss Compared with joys above! With joys a-bove may I be
6. O what are all my suf-ferings here, If Lord thou count me meet With that en-rap-tured host t'ap-pear, And worship at thy feet! Give joy or grief, give ease or Pilsbury 1799 was the first printing of this tune. It was considerably revised by James P. Carrell in 1821, who retitled it Pilgrim, moved it to A minor, and added new words, Charles Wesley's How happy every child of grace (1759). A three-part reduction appears as Child of Grace on p. 77 in The Sacred Harp from 1844; a new Alto part was added in 1911. A description of the history of this tune is given in David Music (1995).
