

Anonymous, first published with this tune in 1804
88. 88. (L. M.)

Amelia

Transcribed from The Farmer's Evening Entertainment, 1804. G minor Solomon Howe, 1804

Tr. C. T. B.

1. When Christ, the virgin's glorious Son, Assumes his last judicial throne, Bright clouds shall bear him down the skies, And strike the world with dread surprise.

2. Angels, as lightnings, bend their way, From the bright world of endless day; To gather all his chosen friends, From earth, and heav'n's remotest ends.

Edited by B. C. Johnston, 2017

1. Measure 5, All parts: two dotted-half notes; the first replaced with a quarter note.
2. Measure 6 in original begins with three beats rest; these eliminated in all parts.
3. Measure 6, All parts: second note dotted-half note in original, changed to half note.